SCHOOLS FOR MILITARY OFFICERS

To be Established in Each Company of the Connecticut National Guard.

The following regulations for officers' schools have been issued by the adjutant general:

Responsibility for the military instruction of company non-commissioned officers rests with company commanders, under the general supervision of battalion and higher command. Regulations and regulations of company commanders and specially selected private officers will be established in each company of infantry, troop of cavalry, the battery of field artillery, company of coast artillery, the signal corps company, the ambulance corps and the field hospital. Instruction will be conducted by the company commander, or by an officer of the company under his supervision, and will consist of recitations, lectures, discussions and practical exercises. Especial priority is attached to practical exercises, and every possible opportunity for giving instruction in minor tactics by means of tactical walks will be taken advantage of. The course of instruction will include drill regulations, Army Regulations and Regulations, C. N. G., relating to enlisted men, Manual of Guard Duty, Small-Arms Firing Manual, minor tactics (Field Service Regulations), and other subjects specially pertinent to the duties of non-commissioned officers and enlisted specialists of the arm of the service to which they belong. Responsibility for the military instruction of non-commissioned officers of the regimental and battalion staffs and the enlisted specialists attached thereto rests with regimental and battalion staff officers. The instruction will be conducted by regimental and battalion staff officers under the supervision of their commanding officers.

Upon the completion of the course in any subject of each company commander or the staff officers responsible will report that fact to the adjutant general and request that a board be appointed to examine the non-commissioned officers and others who have completed the course. A board will then be appointed to consist of not less than two members and not more than one of whom may be an officer of the company concerned. This board will prepare the necessary questions and conduct the examination, which may be wholly oral or partly written, but must be practical in part at least. The board will then furnish each man examined who is found proficient with a certificate of proficiency signed by the board, which certificate will exempt the holder from further attendance in such subject. Proficiency will be determined by the attainment of at least 70 per cent.

Instead of the non-commissioned officers' school course, non-commissioned officers and selected privates may, if they so desire, take the officers' school course and upon attaining the required proficiency they will be furnished with certificates of proficiency. Such certificates of proficiency will exempt the holders from the theoretical but not the practical examination for the officers' school course.

Regimental and other commanders will personally supervise the instruction of the officers of their respective commands, the whole system in each branch of the service being under the supervision and control of the United States army inspector-instructor for that branch.

Schools will be held annually from November 1 to May 31. About the end of November, January, March and May, respectively, all the officers of each regiment or other organization will be convened for a quiz and discussion of the school course just completed. No marks will be given at these meetings which are intended solely for discussion and instruction to stop a man with a tackle. A man with a tackle slipped through the fingers of the school course. After the time even after they had been momentarily checked in their dashes.

Bulkeley used the forward pass effectively, but the feature of the game came on the second kickoff, when half back Donnelly received the ball for Bulkeley and the team making second score of the game. Left half Crowley scored Bulkeley's first touchdown within a few minutes of the opening period, but was off some in his kicking, and the game was covered several of his chances into the extra point.

DIVORCE AND TWO FORECLOSURE SUITS FILED

Three New Cases Brought in Superior Court.

Three new suits were filed with the clerk of the superior court for the November term, on Wednesday:

On the grounds of desertion allowed to have taken place April 1, 1907, habitual intemperance and cruelty, Florence E. Bridges of Stonington, whose maiden name was Florence E. Main, asks for a divorce from Mack Bridges of that place. She also wants custody of two children. They were married August 23, 1904.

The Savings Bank of New London has brought suit against Lawrence Coit and others of Waterford for the foreclosure of a mortgage.

The Bank of New London has sued Helen R. Fitch of New London and others for the foreclosure of a mortgage and possession of it.

DONNELLY'S 100 YD. DASH TO A TOUCHDOWN.

Feature of Game in Which Bulkeley Swamped Windham, 44 to 0.

Before a rather small but enthusiastic crowd of New London supporters at New London on Wednesday, Bulkeley's football eleven ran away with the Windham High school team, defeating their visitors from Windham by the score of 44 to 0. Against the better trained and speedier New London eleven the Windham boys had practically no chance.

Bulkeley ran up 22 points in the first period, added five more in the second, and put on the balance with ease in the third. Before the game was over, Windham had just one chance for a score, when one of the Windham High boys received a fumble from Bulkeley and tried to fumble just long enough to enable a Bulkeley tackler to get him.

Bulkeley used the forward pass effectively, but the feature of the game came on the second kickoff, when half back Donnelly received the ball for Bulkeley and the team making second score of the game. Left half Crowley scored Bulkeley's first touchdown within a few minutes of the opening period, but was off some in his kicking, and the game was covered several of his chances into the extra point.

BALTIMORE FIRE.

Store of Louis Fontaine Suffered Most Damage.

At 2:30 Wednesday morning fire was discovered in Baltic on Railroad avenue and caused no little excitement. The fire was in the R. J. Jodoin block and started in the cellar from a defective furnace. It was confined to that part of the building by the fire department. The first was first discovered by a daughter of Eugene Dion, who with his family occupied the tenement in the block. She notified Officer McGuire, who ran and sounded the alarm by the whistle in the mill.

The loss on the building and contents was close to $2,000. That of Louis J. Fontaine, druggist, was about $1,500. Fully covered by insurance. The loss on the building was $500, also covered by insurance.

MUTE SPORE AT DEAF WIFE.

Fined $10, After "Loud Language" Charge Had Been Stricken Out.

St. Joseph, Mo., Oct. 25.—Pleading guilty to hawking at his wife in the sign language, August Carrado, a deaf mute, was fined $10 in police court. He had been charged with using "loud and obscene" language, but when haled into court, explained that he could not hear or speak. The world "loud" was stricken from the information and he pleaded guilty in writing to the charge of using "profane language" toward his wife, who is also a mute.

Assassination Caused No Uprising.

Washington, Oct. 25.—It is apparent from reports received from the state department today confirming the report of the assassination of the newly appointed Tartar general, Fung-Sen, that the affair was not a signal for a general uprising in the city. American Consul General Berahol reports that the city is quiet and that no disturbances have taken place in the city or district. Eight gunboats are now anchored off Canton, he says, two of which are American.

Imperial Family Ready for Flight.

Rebels Making Extensive Increases to Their Dominion.

Peking, Oct. 25.—Further defections to the rebels, including Nan-Chang, capital of the province of Kiang-Si, and Kwai-Lin, capital of Kwang-Si, have served to increase the tension here over the revolution. To add to the gravity of the situation, the Tsun-Cheng-Yuan, China's first national assembly, gave to the Manchus today what the legations consider an ultimatum. The assembly impeached Sheng-Hsuan-Sun, president of the ministry of posts and communications, and demanded his dismissal with severe punishment. A reply is required by the government by tomorrow, failing which, the assembly will dissolve, and the members will return to their respective provinces. From the temper shown, it is believed that the assembly will carry out the threat. This only course open to the government is either to sacrifice a man who is considered by the foreigners the strongest member of the cabinet, or retaining him, declare war on the assembly as well as on the vast majority of Chinese.

It is commonly reported in Peking that the imperial family is ready for flight. The road to Jehol, 113 miles northeast of Peking, is studded with troops. Other rumors designate the foreign settlements in Tien-Tsin as the possible refuge.

The government authorities have succeeded in arresting a large number of students who attempted a manifestation in the morning of October 13 in Tien-Tsin. A telegram from Mukden says that the victory has ordered the immediate suppression of all disorders with troops if necessary. The foreign professors and teachers fear that the student schools and associations may soon be closed for lack of funds.

The Fountain at the Corner.

Beranger is best known for his bacchanalian songs. One night he was at supper with Dumas the elder. The younger Dumas, who was present, was passing through his college course and at that period was exhibiting those characteristics which unfortunately developed in later life. Noticing that Beranger had drunk only water, he somewhat discreetly asked, "Where do you obtain M. Beranger, all the wine which we find in your songs?"

The poet's reply was, "From the fountain at the corner, my boy, and you would do well to make that the source of your inspiration."

Invincible Logic.

Donald (who is seeing his more prosperous cousin off by the train)—Ye might like to leave me a bob or two to drink ye a safe journey, Willie.

Willie (delighting greatly)—Man, I canna. A' my spare shillin's I gie tae my auld mither. Donald—That's strange, because yer mither told me ye never gie her anything. Willie—Weel, if I dinna gie my auld mither anything, what sort o' chance dais ye think ye've got?

—London Punch.

A Great Relief.

"Gee, ain't it a great relief when you've been suffering from a toothache to summon up your courage and go to a dentist and have it over with?"

"I guess so. Did the dentist relieve you?"

"You bet! He wasn't in!"—Toledo Blade.

Too Low Down.

"Why don't you name your mule, Uncle Jackson?"

"Ain't no name orner 'nough to fit dis mawl, suh."—Buffalo Express.

Dangerous Moonlight.

Moonlight most intense sometimes causes sore eyes in Cuba, and the natives navigate and perambulate with umbrellas and paraulana.
